

Yankees Win; Then Play Tie with Naps

One Glorious Inning of Mixed Baseball Settles First Contest.

Second Game Goes Ten Innings, with Steen and Keating Pitching Well.

Baseball at the Polo Grounds yesterday was what Mr. McAdoo would call "spotty." The play indulged in during the afternoon was extensive, but much of it was arid. In fact, the Naps and the Yankees might just as well have arbitrated their differences after Chane's men had taken the first game, for the second encounter, although carried on until darkness intervened, solved nothing. The Yankees won the first game by a score of 7 to 4 and then drew in the second after ten innings with the score at 3 to 3.

Enough baseball was shown in the second inning of the opening game alone, to warrant the players in shutting up shop and calling it a day. This inning might well have served as a seminar, or cram, for the student desirous of learning all about the national pastime in one sitting. For some reason or other nobody made a balk or a triple play. As everything else was shown during the inning this seemed to be somewhat unfair discrimination.

Graney Fined, Dog Growls.

It was at this time that Jack Graney made an error which might well be called costly. He dropped a fly which allowed three runs to score, and when the player returned to the bench Joe Birmingham, the manager, fined him $25. Graney says that as far as he is concerned he does not see that the new tariff has done a thing to decrease the cost of living.

Larry, the pet bulldog of Graney, growled at Birmingham after the manager imposed the fine, but, indeed, the error was so outrageous that the dog himself had slunk into the far corner of the bench when it was made.

Cleveland began the afternoon in aggressive fashion, and maltreated Cy Pieh, a long, loose, agricultural person, so shamefully in the first inning that McAlle was sent in to take his place upon the mound. In the second inning the issue of the contest and settle. Birdie Green began the attack with a triple against the right field wall. This was the first hit for Cree since his return to the big league. Later in the inning he was called upon to bat again, and this time his string was broken.

All Kinds of Baseball.

Charlie Mullen followed Cree by striking out, but O'Neill dropped the ball and Cree came home while Mullen ran to first. Cook sacrificed, then the Yankees filled the bases. Nunamaker was hit and Boone beat a tap which Chapman fumbled. O'Neill struck out, and when Mullen lifted a long fly to Graney it looked as if everything was over. Graney was set for a catch and he confused it with carelessness, and dropped the ball, while all the men on bases came home and Mullen ran to second. The little comet of the past, then stole third and in instant later stole home to the plate with a fast start and a long slide. Hartwell walked and stole second, coming home on Peckinpaugh batted the ball which Chapman caught and threw to first. A total of six runs, which just about settled the game, although both teams made one more tally before the contest closed.

When Cree was thrown out on his second trip to the plate in the second inning a positive roster declared that the player's chance to bat 1,000 had disappeared, but a mathematical person tipped him off by explaining that if Cree should continue to make a strike in each time at bat he might get back to 1,000 in infinity, the place where the parallel lines meet and the umpires are perfect.

Keating Vies with Steen.

The Yankees were the first to score in the second game, which was a duel between Ray Keating and Bill Steen. In the fourth Cook beat out a tap to Turner, took third on Sweeney's drive to right and scored on a single by Boone.

In the fifth inning Cleveland scored three times. Chapman outprinted a splash to Peck, Litchner popped to Boone, Basler doubled to the right field wall and Steen was passed, filling the bases. Graney, discouraged, perhaps, by the fact that he was making practically nothing for the day, struck out.

Sweeney had Steen trapped off first with a quick toss to Mullen, but the runner, sliding back, spiked the hand of the first baseman, who dropped the ball. Turner took a deep left center.

The Yankees scored two runs in the sixth, which tied the score. A base on balls to Sweeney, a single by Keating and Roy Hartwell's triple did the trick. The Jackson cut off another run in this inning by taking Mullen's

Twenty-Seven Defeats in Row

Waco, Tex., July 9.—The Austin club of the Texas League was beaten by a score of 11 to 5 here to-day by Waco, and established what is believed to be a new world's record, of twenty-seven consecutive defeats.

Louisville, of the American Association, lost twenty-six straight games in 1889.

THE ADVENTURES OF ARABELLA CINCH WITH THE NATIONAL LEAGUE

TIGERS PRESSING ATHLETICS HARD

Batting of Crawford Factor in Double Victory Over Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, July 9.—Detroit won both games of to-day's double-header with Philadelphia by scores of 8 to 3 and 5 to 3.

The Tigers are now only one and a half games behind the Athletics.

The visitors knocked Shawkey off the rubber in the first inning of the opening contest, while Coveleskie held the home team safe.

In the second game Wyckoff was batted out of the box in three innings, and both of the runs made off Joe Bush were home runs by Dubuc and Crawford.

The holding of O. Bush and the batting of Crawford were features, while Burns made thirty-two putouts at first base, nineteen in one contest and thirteen in the other.

In ten times at the plate Crawford made a single, a double, a triple, a home run and a sacrifice fly, and he received two hits.
